

Creating the future together

Heating, Cooling & Electronic Engineering. As a global leader in Electrothermics and Electronics, DBK Group is developing customized solutions for automotive industry Worldwide. To strengthen out our Team in Changshu (Jiangsu province), we need a qualified person and this we are looking for

Process Optimization (m/f) - Industrial Engineer

At the interface between engineering and production for improvement and modernization, you are responsible for all technical aspects on the production line:

Technical Responsible

- Responsible for the series product over lifetime
- Interface with R & D to solve product problems and interface with IE to solve process problems

Optimization of Production Processes

- Analyse optimization potential
- Analyse malfunctions and suggest improvements
- Defined production capacity and implement changes if necessary.
- Analyse possible productivity losses
- Review regularly the production time
- Offer new production opportunities for the reuse of existing production tools

Responsible for the Changes

- Responsible for implementing changes in the process or production line
- Support traceability

New Products

- Responsible for the development of new products in relation with the IE service & production manager
- Realize the assembly of prototypes in cooperation with R & D

Responsible for the documentation

- Responsible for the creation and updating of the documentation of new products in cooperation with IE service (FlowChart, PFMEA, Control Plan)
- Responsible for the maintenance of the ERP system within the IE work area

Personal Skills

- Responsiveness, creativity, flexibility, autonomy, teamwork, readiness to take responsibility, stress resistance
- Microsoft Office + ERP Knowledge

We offer attractive terms of employment and a position with development potential in a very international environment. If you are interested in working at DBK please contact our human resources division via email (bewerbungen@dbk-group.com).